Comedian Robb Wilton in St Helens
A talk by local historian Tom Preston
Eccleston Library
Friday 7th September 2018
12pm

Join us in Eccleston Library as Dr Tom Preston talks about his recently written biography of Liverpool-born comedian Robb Wilton.

Wilton was one of Britain's top comedians, renowned particularly for his wartime skit, The Day War Broke Out, an inspiration for the TV series, Dad's Army.

During his sixty year career on stage, radio, films and TV he had a number of interesting encounters with the town of St Helens.

All welcome to join us for this fascinating talk, light refreshments will be served.
